THANK YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT

West Virginia University's Robert C. Byrd Health Sciences Center benefits from the support of thousands of satisfied patients, loyal alumni and benevolent friends.

This publication is a special report to those generous donors whose recent contributions of $10,000 or more have had a significant and lasting impact on our work. You are a special group. The faculty, staff and students of each of our schools and the patients of our hospitals and clinics are benefiting directly from your generous gifts. Thank you!

This report highlights some of the wonderful things happening on campus and those who have helped make it possible. Whether through the support of our nationally ranked rural medicine program (see page 10), the establishment of new scholarships (see pages 3 and 4), participation in new giving clubs (see page 8), gifts to honor WVU's physicians (see pages 17 and 18) or contributions to support our many construction projects (see pages 5 and 6), private support touches the lives of people in West Virginia and beyond.

Exciting things happen at the Health Sciences Center every day. We invite you to visit our web site at www.hsc.wvu.edu/development for the most up-to-date news and information.

The WVU Health Sciences Center is a center of learning and research and is the foundation for patient care in West Virginia. Our research staff and health care professionals are finding better ways to cure and treat disease, new buildings have been completed or are under construction, and our students are benefiting from an increasing number of scholarships, hands-on community service and enhanced facilities, thanks in large part to your support. Thank you so much for all that you do for the Health Sciences Center and all those that we serve.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Dan McGinn, McGinn Group founder and President, frequently talks about the "brain chase" that's underway.

"We're in a tremendous race between states and among countries for brainpower. The most important place that race can occur is at the educational level."

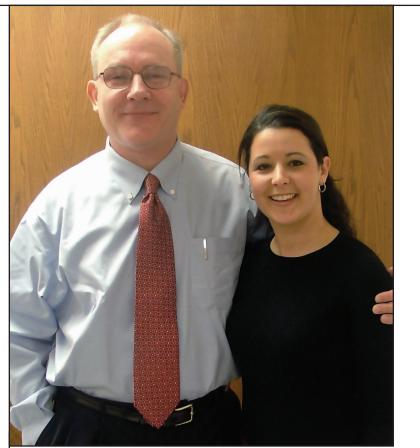

Four years ago, the Virginia-based communications marketing executive established The McGinn Fund, which pays tuition and fees for one WVU medical student for all four years, and he's doing it again, starting this Fall.

"People need mentors - someone who is interested in their success," he said.

For Brigitte Messenger, he is that someone. She is the recipient of the McGinn Group's annual scholarship in memory of Dan McGinn's mother, Eileen Guthrie McGinn, "a strong, independent woman, who, had times been different, may have become a doctor herself."

Mrs. McGinn passed away in 2001 after a very difficult five-year battle with breast cancer. To honor her memory, McGinn, who did not attend WVU, said he wanted his support to go where it will make the biggest difference. "West Virginia University is the brightest light the state has. It is the most important place where the most important work is taking place – a symbol of excellence, an enormous symbol of pride and an economic source of power."

As for Messenger, who graduates this May, she says, "I grew up in a single parent household. We struggled every day. Debt doesn't deter me, but getting this scholarship relieved a huge financial burden. Now I can concentrate on becoming a good doctor. One day, when I am a successful doctor, I will do exactly what Mr. McGinn has done for me."

PHARMACY

Carol A. Hudachek, PharmD, MA, RPh, class of '88 and '03 established a scholarship in honor of her parents, Joseph and Edna Hudachek. This endowment will provide undergraduate scholarships for students at the School of Pharmacy, with preference given to students from West Virginia. Carol serves as the Pharmacy Clinical Manager at Weirton Medical Center and serves as a preceptor for fourth-year students. "West Virginia University has prepared six of the seven children of Joseph and Edna Hudachek (Carol, Joan, Jean, Joseph, John and Robert; with Susan graduating from Wheeling Jesuit University) for varied careers" she said. "I could not think of a more appropriate way to honor my parents and thank the faculty of the School of Pharmacy for preparing me for my career as a pharmacist than by endowing a scholarship in their names. Education was always a priority for me and they provided every opportunity for each of us to succeed."

Dr. Stephen Hatcher, DDS, '75 and Mrs. Deborah Hatcher, BSDH '75 of Fayetteville, WV created a new scholarship in honor of Dr. Hatcher's father, John W. Hatcher. Dr. Hatcher, who is retired, said that his father always emphasized education, not just to his siblings, but to others in the community. The Hatchers have two children, Leslie, who lives in Richmond and graduated from Randolph Macon, and John, who is currently an undergraduate student at WVU. Dr. Hatcher is currently serving the School of Dentistry as a part-time faculty member.

Construction of the Blanchette Rockefeller Neurosciences Institute (BRNI) research building began in May 2006. The 78,000 square foot, three-story facility will provide state-ofthe-art laboratory space and will support research activities of up to 150 scientists when it is completed in the Spring of 2008.

West Virginia Senator Jay Rockefeller established the Blanchette Rockefeller Neurosciences Institute, a not-forprofit research institution that partners with government and private enterprises in the search for cures to cognitive disorders, in memory of his mother who suffered from Alzheimer's disease.

"Senator Rockefeller hopes to prevent other families from the devastation that his family suffered, watching a loved one and unable to help," said Dr. Robert M. D'Alessandri, BRNI president. "The goal of the institute is to understand these diseases that destroy human memory, then to use that understanding to develop treatments, and finally to prevent these diseases altogether. This new facility will help us attract world-class neuroscientists interested in studying and treating cognitive disorders."

HSC LIBRARY AND LEARNING CENTER

The final touches to complete the HSC Library and Learning Center Addition were made during December and the new Learning Center opened in time for Spring '07 classes.

The learning center includes new classrooms and auditoriums, and is a national center for Positron Emissions Tomography (PET) education.

It is located at the front of the Robert C. Byrd Health Sciences Center. The addition encloses the Pylons, making it a commons area with space for individual study, group meetings, receptions, and more.

NEWS AND PROGRESS

When the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center opened its doors in 1990, patients entered through an open, airy lobby - a place of comfort, beauty and quiet that helped make the patient experience as pleasant as possible. As word spread about the comprehensive facility, the caring staff, and the top quality care offered here, patient volumes began to grow. Over time, patient care areas filled up, and operations spilled over into the lobby - now subdivided into offices and cubicles.

A new 90,000 square foot expansion project will enhance the Cancer Center's patient care areas. The result will be a more spacious facility, featuring a clinic double the size of the existing one, with additional exam rooms, larger more comfortable waiting areas, easier access to hospital services, a patient library, and more efficient patient registration. The expansion will also restore some of the original quiet space.

"We're building a state-of-the-art facility to match the high quality care patients receive from our multidisciplinary team of experts," says Jame Abraham, MD, clinic director. "We also want the experience to be as pleasant and comfortable as possible."

Construction began in 2007, with completion expected by Spring, 2008. Renovation of the existing oncology clinic will follow.

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE RECEIVES AAMC COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD

GOV. JOE MANCHIN, DEAN JOHN PRESCOTT AND DR. DARRELL KIRSCH (PRESIDENT OF THE AAMC)

The Association of American Medical Colleges (AAMC) recently named the WVU School of Medicine the winner of its annual Award for Outstanding Community Service. The award is presented to a United States member institution or organization with a long-standing, major institutional commitment to addressing community needs.

Other finalists for the award included Eastern Virginia Medical School and the Meharry-Vanderbilt Alliance. A team of AAMC staff members visited the three campuses over the summer to review the community service efforts at each school. "Community service is an integral part of the mission at the WVU School of Medicine," said Dr. John E. Prescott, Dean. "The projects carried out by our students and faculty have a real and lasting impact on the health of the people of West Virginia."

Some of the School of Medicine's community outreach programs include the CARDIAC (Coronary Artery Risk Detection in Appalachian Communities) program, which targets 5th grade public school students and screens them for risk factors associated with obesity, heart disease and diabetes; and MUSHROOM, a program that provides basic life sustaining social, nutritional and medical outreach to the homeless. Other programs provide clinical services to rural populations, obtain medicine for low income patients and assist under-represented high school students.

"I am especially pleased that the AAMC has taken note of our efforts this year - a year in which many WVU faculty, staff and students opened their hearts and rolled up their sleeves to provide health care for displaced victims of Hurricane Katrina," Prescott said.

Last year's recipients of the Award for Outstanding Community Service were the Medical College of Wisconsin and University of California, Davis, Health System.

NIGHTING

The Nightingale Circle was created to honor and recognize alumni and friends of the School of Nursing who have given generously of their time, talent and treasure to further nursing study at WVU. Membership is by invitation only, and is reserved for alumni and friends who have demonstrated a continued commitment to financial and other support of the school. Nightingale Circle members serve as ambassadors and advisors for the WVU School of Nursing in their workplace and community, providing an important link with those we serve.

Board of Advisors.

The inaugural ceremony was conducted by Dean Martin and Cheryl Toombs Richter, Chair of the WVU School of Nursing

EWS BRIEFS

Dr. Mark Cochran, a biosciences researcher and entrepreneur, was named CEO and Executive Director of the Blanchette Rockefeller Neurosciences Institute (BRNI) in May 2006. "I'm confident that Dr. Cochran shares our excitement and commitment to making West Virginia and WVU a world leader in Alzheimer's research and treatments," said BRNI founder, Senator Jay Rockefeller.

Dr. James Brick, professor and chair of medicine, and his brother, Dr. John Brick, professor and chair of neurology, will begin seeing patients regularly at the Larry Joe Harless Community Center in Mingo County, WV in order to reduce the burden on patients who have to travel long distances to see a specialist.

Dr. E. Jane Martin, Dean of the School of Nursing, has announced that she plans to retire on June 30, 2007. Dean Martin received her bachelor's degree in nursing education from WVU in 1963 and returned as dean and professor of the School of Nursing in 1992.

Georgia L. Narsavage, PhD, APRN, FAAN, has been named the next Dean of the WVU School of Nursing. Dr. Narsavage currently serves as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and Professor in the School of Nursing at the Medical College of Georgia.

Dr. Patricia Chase joined the WVU School of Pharmacy as the new dean on July 1, 2006, after the retirement of Dr. George Spratto. Before coming to WVU, Dean Chase was Chair of the College of Pharmacy at Butler University in Indianapolis.

West Virginia University's School of Medicine is one of the top schools in the country for rural medicine, according to U.S. News & World Report. The program is ranked in a three-way tie for 12th among the 145 schools listed in the magazine's 2007 edition of "America's Best Graduate Schools."

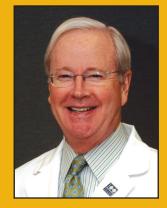

This past year marked a milestone in rural health and medicine, as more than one million community service contacts have taken place since rural rotations became a degree requirement ten years ago.

Alison Wilson, MD, has been appointed director of the Jon Michael Moore Trauma Center at WVU Hospitals. Dr. Wilson received her residency and fellowship training at the Baylor College of Medicine and has been a faculty member in the Department of Surgery at WVU since 2002. The Jon Michael Moore Trauma Center is the state's only nationally certified Level 1 trauma center.

FACES OF GIVING

People who "give back" inspire and challenge the rest of us. If we all believe in the same thing and support that cause to the best of our ability, anything is possible.

im Stevenson, MD Professor / Chair, Department of Behavioral Medicine and Psychiatry WVU School of Medicine Associate Dean for Development

STANLEY & VIRGINIA CHILD HOSTLER

Stanley and Virginia Child Hostler of Charleston, West Virginia, have provided generous support to the WVU School of Medicine, several other areas of West Virginia University, and the state over the past 15 years, particularly to projects that focus on creating opportunities for minority and disadvantaged youth. Their support covers a broad range of programs—the nationally recognized Health Sciences Technology Academy (HSTA), pediatrics research funding, medical scholarship opportunities and health sciences discretionary support. The Hostler Auditorium at the Health Sciences Center was named in honor of their generosity to the School of Medicine and the Health Sciences Center.

"My mother said this to me one time, and of course we revered our mother," Stanley remarked. "I will never forget it. She said, 'Money is only good if you do good with it." The Hostlers' commitment to quality education and health care for all West Virginians is a living testament to his mother's philosophy.

We are proud to highlight the support of J. David Haddox, DDS, MD and his employer, Purdue Pharma.

Dr. Haddox earned his BA, DDS and MD degrees at WVU and completed residency training in both anesthesiology and psychiatry at WVU.

Now Vice President of Risk Management & Health Policy at Purdue Pharma L.P., Dr. Haddox has facilitated multiple major gifts to the WVU Health Sciences Center. Since 2002, Purdue Pharma has given $125,000 as a major sponsor to the Doctors on Call television call-in program featuring WVU doctors and health professionals on West Virginia public broadcasting. This is an invaluable public service and increases health awareness throughout West Virginia and contiguous states. Purdue Pharma has also given $30,000 to Continuing Education for the School of Pharmacy, $12,500 to the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center, and has contributed to the Center for Health Ethics and Law and its palliative care program, and continuing education for Medicine.

Dr. Haddox and his wife, Marsha McAllister, RN, also support WVU through private gifts. They are quite proud to give back to WVU. Their most recent gifts have been to the School of Medicine Dean's Annual Scholarship Fund, the Fund for Medicine, and the Anthony G. DiBartolomeo Professorship in Medicine. Dr. Haddox recently attended his 25th School of Medicine reunion and serves as a member of the School of Medicine Board of Advisors.

GATES R. WIGNER

Gates R. Wigner, a member of the WVU School of Pharmacy's Class of '42, left a legacy at the school throughout his life and through his estate. "Bud," as he was known by most, passed away on November 18, 2005. After receiving his pharmacy degree, he served in the US Navy as a pharmacist for the remainder of WWII. Following the war, he worked for the VA Hospital in the San Francisco area for more than 38 years. When he retired in 1985, he was Assistant Chief of Pharmacy.

Because of his generosity, several projects have been completed at the School of Pharmacy, including The Wigner Education and Research Suite, ongoing support of the Drug Information Center, student residencies and fellowships, the recently created Wigner Institute for Advanced Practice Education and Research as well as the Gates Wigner Deanship, which is only one of four pharmacy deanships in the United States. Mr. Wigner's lifetime giving makes him the largest individual contributor in the school's history.

We need our alumni and friends to give back if they're grateful for what they've been given. We have terrific students. We're doing important research. Our faculty are among the best and brightest in the world. People have every reason to be proud of this medical school.

John Prescott, MD Dean, WVU School of Medicine

MEMORY

Ζ

On February 25, 2006, the School of Nursing lost a loyal friend and strong supporter when Anna Mary Miller, RN, passed away.

Anna Mary graduated from St. Vincent's Hospital School of Nursing in Erie, PA, and began her nursing career at Vincent Palloti Hospital in Morgantown, WV. She then transferred to Uniontown Hospital, where she met E. Jane Martin who later became dean of the WVU School of Nursing. They became fast friends and spent much of their off-duty time together.

Anna Mary served on the school's Visiting Committee and served as co-chair for more than 10 years. She served on many other school committees as well, including the Honoring Achievements and Celebration of Scholarship Committee. She was in the process of helping plan for the Nightingale Induction Ceremony at the time of her death.

Anna Mary was honored in 2001 by being inducted as an honorary alumna of the School of Nursing and was inducted into the Nightingale Circle posthumously. A scholarship has been established in her name as a tribute to her loyal service to the School of Nursing and as a marker of her particular affection for and respect of the doctoral students who will be the beneficiaries of the scholarship. It seems a fitting tribute to one who gave so generously of her time and talent for the school.

DR. RIZAL & MRS. NELLY PANGILINAN

The generous supporters of WVU's School of Medicine include not only graduates, faculty, and staff, but also dedicated and caring neighbors here in the mountain state. The WVU Eye Institute/Department of Ophthalmology has been very fortunate to receive the support of Dr. Rizal and Mrs. Nelly Pangilinan of Wheeling, WV.

Dr. Pangilinan was a longtime practicing ophthalmologist in the Wheeling, WV area. After he passed away in 2002, Nelly continued the family's support of the Eye Institute with a multi-year gift that named a lecture hall in his honor. When asked why she supports the WVU Eye Institute, she responds without hesitation, "Education is the most important gift that you can give someone. It is the gift that we hope will be passed on to others."

Nelly's support of the WVU School of Medicine's Department of Ophthalmology is a wonderful example of how private support advances service and outreach to meet the needs of medical care and education in West Virginia and the region.

> No academic medical center can survive in America without philanthropy. It does not exist in Virginia, North Carolina, Ohio or Minnesota without gifts. If we are going to have the kind of medical center that West Virginia needs; if we are going to attract the best teachers, doctors and researchers - it takes money.

Professor and Chair, Depa WVU John Brick, MD rtment of Neurology School of Medicine

"HAVING BEEN PATIENTS OF, AND FRIENDS WITH DR. ANTHONY MORISE FOR MANY YEARS, WE WOULD LIKE TO THANK HIM FOR HIS GREAT CARE AND FRIENDSHIP."

The WVU Physicians and Hospitals' Grateful Patient Program provides an opportunity for patients to express gratitude for the service our health care professionals provide. Through this program, patients and families who are grateful for the care they receive are able to share comments reflecting their appreciation or make gifts in their physician's honor.

GRATEFUL PATIENTS

"I PLACED MY LIFE IN DR JAME ABRAHAM'S HANDS HE GAVE ME KNOWLEDGE TO MAKE HARD DECISIONS. HE HELD MY HAND WHEN I WAS AFRAID. HE SUPPORTED MY FAMILY AS WELL AS ME. HE GUIDED ME THROUGH A FOREST OF TESTS AND TREATMENTS TO EMERGE A WHOLE PERSON AGAIN. THANK YOU FOR THAT AND FOR THAT WONDERFUL SMILE."

"DR. CHARLES ROSEN. YOUR SURGICAL SKILL WAS EXCEEDED BY THE PERSONAL CONCERN YOU SHOWED ME BEFORE AND FOLLOWING THE SURGERY. YOUR CARE HAS GIVEN ME TIME I NEVER EXPECTED TO HAVE. I SINCERELY THANK YOU."

"THANK YOU VERY MUCH, BETSY MILLER, FOR ALL THE WONDERFUL CARE THAT YOU PROVIDED DURING MY PREGNANCY AND DURING THE BIRTH OF OUR SON. YOU ARE THE MOST CARING AND COMPASSIONATE HEALTH CARE WORKER WE HAVE EVER MET."

> "THANKS FOR BEING SO NICE TO MY MOTHER, DR. GEORGE SCOTT, YOU MADE HER DAY WHEN YOU HUGGED HER ON HER 82ND BIRTHDAY. SHE COULDN'T EVEN MOVE HER TOES WHEN WE CAME TO YOU BUT NOW CAN WALK WITH A WALKER. KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK."

"I APPRECIATE VERY MUCH THE CARE GIVEN ME WHILE IN THE HOSPITAL. THE EFFORT OF DR. BRAD WARDEN TO HAVE THE KNOWLEDGE TO CARE FOR PATIENTS SUCH AS MYSELF IS VERY GREATLY

"MANY THANKS TO DR. DAVID HUBBARD FOR YOUR CARE AND CONCERN WHILE I WAS IN THE HOSPITAL, I FELT THAT YOUR COMMITMENT GAVE ME THE WILL TO GET ON WITH MY LIFE AGAIN, THANK YOU."

Your generosity and dedication set an example for others as you join us in our mission to provide state-of-the-art health care, enhance opportunities for innovative learner-centered education and cutting-edge research, and inspire exemplary community service. Your support has a positive impact on the lives of West Virginians and others.

The number of private gifts to the schools and health care facilities of the Robert C. Byrd Health Sciences Center increased in every category during the first six months of fiscal year 2007, compared with the same period in the previous fiscal year. Thank you!

MOMENTUM

Private giving has created 450 endowment funds benefiting the Robert C. Byrd Health Sciences Center. Valued at nearly $94 million these endowments support our schools, divisions and patient care facilities. The number of funds and the fund balances grow every year, assisting the Health Sciences Center in its mission to improve the health of West Virginians through education of health professionals, basic/clinical scientific research, rural health, and direct patient care. We appreciate the support of each and every donor to these vital funds.
